

THE CURSE OF THE MAYA

After discovering the clues to the lost city of Tikal, your next challenge is to find out what Maya people liked to eat. As Historians, you will need to use your investigative skills to discover the different types of food Maya people liked to eat and what was available to them.

Once you have completed your research, you can choose to either:

- Create a fact file about Maya food or
- Design a menu for a Maya restaurant

We hope this will give you a real 'hunger' for your home learning - good luck Year 6!

As a Historian, you will:

- Research the different foods Maya people ate and the dishes they made with these ingredients
- Use a range of sources to draw conclusions about Maya food
- Use your findings to draw your own conclusions about Maya food
